#020

Not the day, but the direction ⬆ needs to change

Sometimes we say –“From tomorrow I’ll start fresh…From Monday I’ll change… When the new year comes…”

But the real truth is: Changing the day doesn’t change your life.Changing the direction changes your life.

If a train is heading in the wrong direction,changing the station won’t help at all – you have to change the direction.

Where you are todayis the result of the direction of your past decisions.

And where you want to reachcan be started with just one small decision today.

Not more time,not more resources,just the first step in the right direction.

Not from today…Right now — let’s change the direction.

The rest — time will take care of itself.